

Concilium contract with contributors

Concilium Commissioning

The terms on which we accept articles for publication:

1. Copyright agreement

You agree that on publication you grant to Concilium a worldwide, perpetual, irrevocable, non-exclusive, assignable, royalty-free licence (with full right to sublicense) of the work. This includes online publication and publication as archive material.

2. The contribution to Concilium should be fresh and original. It should not be published elsewhere or available online.

You warrant that the work is original to yourself has not been copied wholly or substantially from any other work, material, or source, including previously published work of your own, and that by publishing the work we will not infringe the rights of any third party.

You accept responsibility for obtaining permission for publication at your expense of any textual and/or illustrative material in which copyright vests in any other person or party.

3. It will not be reproduced before it is published in Concilium. Any reproduction or re-print will be permitted after one year of its appearance in Concilium.

You agree that you will not republish or reproduce any article, or a material part of it, whether in hard copy or electronic form, within one year of its publication by Concilium. This includes on personal blogs and social media.

By agreeing to write for Concilium you are also agreeing to comply with the terms above.
